 Search engines algorithms
 "It's in the algorithm":
 Mathematics writers, "in search we're learning that will see search engines emerge sporting fancy new algorithms that automatically search engines, for each and every individual searcher. That is, they will if mathematicians can overcome the personalization dilemma and develop search engines that deliver more relevant, customized search results based on our individual search history and interests."  Keeping tabs on Google...Yahoo modifies home page
 Keeping tabs on Google...Yahoo modifies home page
 From the article, "Through a slight change, it speaks volumes about the challenge Yahoo faces in educating visitors on the search engine's new interface. The changes are subtle, but significant. For example, the search bar has been moved to the top of the page, and the search results are now displayed in a grid format." Read more
